Mitchell — the Man Who Was Right

He Dared to Speak — and They Broke Him

President Roosevelt reflects the sentiment of all Americans Friday when, bolstering his message to the congress asking another billion dollars for planes and tanks, he says "incredible events" in Europe have made these war machines necessary. For if Britain and France, living in Europe were not adequately prepared to meet the German air force, you can imagine how ill prepared we ourselves are. Not that we weren't warned, however, I am going to tell you briefly the story of "Billy" Mitchell, the man the Army and Navy brass-hats "broke" in 1925.

25 Pct. Gain for Hope's Population Hikes Expense, Too

Syd McMath, Finance Chairman, Addresses Rotary

AUDITOR REPORTS

McDuffie Urges Cash Reserve of $100,000 for City

Hope's 25 per cent growth in the last 10 years—from 6,008 in 1930 to 7,477 on the 1940 census—have been accompanied by a corresponding increase in the necessary expense of the city government, Syd McMath, chairman of the finance committee of the Hope City Council, told the Rotary club Friday noon at Hotel Barlow.

"The city's operating income is about $20,000 a year, and its expense approximately $50,000—an annual deficit of $30,000," Mr. McMath said. "Of course you know where the deficit is made up—the municipal water & light plant, with some profit to spare."

"Not only does the municipal plant take care of so large a part of the city's annual operating expense, but it furnishes $20,000 worth of free service, such as electric current for the schools and churches, and fire-plug service on the water lines."

"Furthermore, the municipal plant is responsible for the city being able to own the following property, in a town that has no occupation tax and no bonded indebtedness:

"The municipal plant property, whose cost is $475,000.
"Other property to the value of $150,000—making a total of $625,000 in property alone."

Property Listed

Included in this "other" property are: The city hall, the new fire station, the old fire station, the former Elks building, the Fair park, the Dykes Springs property, and the 40-acre municipal dumping ground.

"As a matter of fact, our ownership of the municipal water & light plant makes Hope a superior place in which to live, enabling Hope to do things similar-sized cities can not do—for we have the money to do with."

Mr. McMath called attention to the fact that the City of Hope has a standing offer to pay one-third of paving costs wherever property owners desire this improvement.

And the city maintains such public library service and contributed to the Hope High School Band.

The speaker pointed out that it was participation by the City of Hope which made possible construction of the great high school football stadium; and the city within recent years also constructed electric lines to bring light and power to a seven-mile farm radius of Hope.

Mr. McMath briefly reviewed the pending budget recommendations by the city's auditors, McDuffie, Stewart & Co., Little Rock, for the new fiscal year:

1. A cash reserve of $100,000, starting with $35,000, and adding $10,000 a year until the maximum is reached.
2. A $3,500 appropriation for street

Josephine Clinic Is 25 Years Old

First Operation Performed Before Hospital Opened

Twenty-five years ago Friday the Josephine Hospital, newly organized under the direction of Dr. G. E. Cannon, opened on its first patient.

The old building site, now Dr. Cannon's home, was not completed and the operation had to be made in one of the patient-rooms. Five years later the present Josephine hospital was constructed.

The old hospital, with a limited amount of equipment, could only take care of six or eight patients where today, with complete x-ray, operating, and all standardized equipment necessary, 25 patients can be handled.

The hospital for many years has been approved and standardized by the American College of Surgeons and is the only one in Arkansas under 65 beds to hold this honor.

Nurses in the old hospital were practically unheard of. The present staff consists of five regular nurses. Dr. Cannon was born and reared in Hempstead county, has practiced medicine 42 years, and has practiced in Hope 30 years. Dr. A. C. Kolb, now in partnership with Dr. Cannon, has been connected with the hospital on and off since 1917.

No Fighting Force in All of Southern Republics Together

Sister Republics to Our South Are Defenseless But U. S. Gets Busy

By BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — In any combined operation to defend the new world against invasion, the bulk of the work would have to be borne by the military forces of the United States.

On paper, the republics of South America can muster fairly impressive defense forces. Their standing armies total better than 240,000 men (a force smaller than the combined Belgian and Dutch regular armies); their navies include five battleships, 16 cruisers, 27 destroyers and 23 submarines. In their air forces are upward of 380 planes.

A breakdown shows this strength more apparent than real. These forces are scattered all over the continent, divided into 13 national groupings. Much of the naval strength is badly out-dated and many of the armies are not fitted to engage in modern war-fare.

A B C Nations Strongest

As might be expected, the "A B C" powers—Argentina, Brazil and Chile—come the closest to having real military strength.

Brazil, for instance, has a standing army of 79,000 officers and men, organized into 13 regiments of infantry, 20 of cavalry and eight of artillery—including one mechanized battery. In addition, the nation has a military police force of 38,000 men, classed as an army reserve. Brazilian navy includes two battleships (with nine under construction), five submarines, and 37 minor craft—gunboats, torpedo boats, minelayers, etc. Between them, the army and navy all forces have approximately 60 planes.

The Argentine army has about 50,000 officers and men. In the navy there are two battleships, nine cruisers, four coast defense vessels, 16 destroyers, three submarines and 30 minor craft.

Chile has 16,400 soldiers, organized in three infantry divisions and one cavalry division. Her air force includes 30 amphibians, totaling perhaps 30 planes; in her navy there are one battleship, three cruisers, eight destroyers and nine submarines, plus 18 miscellaneous vessels.

Many Vessels Obsolete

Those naval strengths are not as impressive as they look. The two Brazilian battleships were built in 1910; those of Chile and the Argentine date back to 1915. Argentina's cruisers and most of her destroyers are modern, so are her submarines, three of Brazil's and three of Chile's. The rest of Building permits, including repairs, increased 15.6 during April, but value of construction contracts declined 9.5 per cent.

Commercial failures in the District in April, according to Dun and Bradstreet, numbered 38, involving liabilities of $438,000. In March there were 27 defaults with liabilities of $130,000 and in April last year, 32 insolvencies for a total of $1,685,000.

Roosevelt Urges Hasty Re-Arming

Cites "Incredible Events in Europe" to the Congress

WASHINGTON —(AP)—President Roosevelt submitted to congress Friday a supplemental emergency defense program, involving "over a billion dollars".

He asked for action "without delay."

The latest enlargement of the military program is necessitated, Roosevelt said in his message to the legislators, because "of the almost incredible events" in the past two weeks of Europe's war—"particularly as the result of the use of aviation, and mechanized equipment."

"No individual and no group can clearly foretell the future," Roosevelt asserted. "As long, however, as the possibility exists that not one continent or two continents but all continents may become involved in a world-wide war, reasonable precaution demands that American defense be made more certain."

(One specific recommendation concluded the president's message. That was, that congress authorize him to call into active service whatever portion of the national guard may be deemed necessary to "maintain our position of neutrality, and to safeguard national defense."

30,000 Escape

PARIS —(AP)—Two divisions of the French rear guard for the Allied retreat from Flanders fought their way to Dunkerque, it was announced at Friday afternoon's ministry of information press conference.

The divisions, numbering 30,000 men in all before they underwent the shattering attack in Flanders, were said to have reached the Channel port just as Germany's legions laid siege to the town.

Armored columns smashed at the Dunkerque gateway, and slashed around the French rear guard which covered itself in the manner of Caesar's forces, boxed in by armored phalanxes.

The divisions were said to be commanded by General Rene Prioux (whom the Germans say is their prisoner).

Report Nazis to Force Peace With an Italian Threat

Any Peace Overture to Be Rejected by British

ALLIES ESCAPING

Stream of Troops Pouring Into Channel Ships

By LOUIS LOCHNER

WITH THE GERMAN ARMY IN THE WEST —(AP)—Word spread Friday through the zone of operations that a communication of the greatest importance had been received from Italy.

The general opinion was that Premier Mussolini's entrance into the war was only a question of brief time, possibly a few days.

By the Associated Press

British "Tommy's" fought hand-to-hand with German troops south of the Yser canal Friday in a fierce struggle to hold the "Allies' escape" port of Dunkerque, and stem the sweep of the Nazi mechanized legions advancing into the sea.

Dunkerque itself was a kettle-drum dinning with anti-aircraft fire. Naval guns co-operating with the British pursuit squadron, operating from bases in England, made the air "literally forbidden" to Nazi bombers.

Thousands of battle-weary troops, both French and English, streamed into the port through a pass between the muddy sea water, several miles wide.

The British said the evacuation "still goes on."

An early attempt by Hitler to split England and France with separate offers of peace—under threat of losing Germany's axis partner Italy—into the war—was forestalled in London, would be swiftly rejected.

The "Nazis asserted one million French soldiers alone had been killed or taken prisoner since real war began in the West."

ROME —(AP)—Italians close to the Government said Friday any announcement of Italy's entrance into European war "probably would come only after the Italian forces had already moved and that the world probably would learn of the first actions from points outside of Italy."

A wide-spread belief that Italian participation is imminent came from Mussolini's call for a cabinet meeting next Tuesday to discuss "important matters."

Growing Pains

The United States is growing up, rapidly, to an untold degree. It is like a strong, and sturdy child who has enjoyed an idyllic childhood, not without its bumps and disappointments, but carefree and happy. Suppose that boy, irresponsible and carefree, suddenly meets within a year the death of both parents. The burden of the family falls on his shoulders. Playtime is over. Now he must think and work, and accept responsibility. Now he is a man. Growing up, like this, has happened to the United States during the past generation. We lived in the world, before from its bumps and troubles. Even when the World War came, with its momentary gravities, it seemed like an episode, something that came and went, and whose repetition was not to be expected or feared. But after the 10-year party we staged in celebration, the depression came. A generation grew to maturity knowing no other circumstances. And now comes the war, not like the other, but deeper, more basic, more fundamental, a war so deeply grounded that whatever its outcome it is certain to change the world. What this will mean to the United States we do not know. But we are like the boy whose parents died. We know that new responsibilities are coming to us, and coming fast. Our parents', the old-time orderly world of economics and politics which prevailed before 1914, are "dead." A new life is in the making. Military preparedness in times past has been an aspect, like a game. Now it is deadly earnest, and no longer, doubts that our latent strength must be organized and made ready for use. No former preparedness program required any serious part of the national production. This one will. Economic problems used to solve themselves. Now the best brains and thought we can bring to bear on them are not wasted. For better or worse, we are launched into a hemisphere of defense and development. The will require conscious effort to bring success. World financial leadership has been tossed into one lap whether we wish it or not. Like the unwilling boy who, faced by necessity, buckled down and set himself to bear a man's burdens, so now the United States gathers its strength and prepares to carry a full share of the world's burdens. No longer can we afford to flex idly the muscles of our strength. In a dynamic world like that of today, strength and leadership are Siamese twins which cannot be cut apart.

LOVE, COURTSHIP and MARRIAGE
 By ERNEST R. AND GLADYS H. NOTED AUTHORITIES ON MARRIAGE RELATIONS

Important Thing For Newlyweds Is Lightness of Mood
 In marital adjustment no more than anywhere else is it any advantage to yourself get too tense. The moment worry enters, good adjustment departs. For worry breeds tension, and makes both partners ill at ease. Relaxation, mental, emotional and physical, helps the bride to do her part in the initial physical adjustments of marriage. If she will cultivate the ability to let herself go, as often as she wanted to do in the past under stress of courtship excitement, she may soon be able to make a positive contribution to the physical side of married life. Chief reason why any bride ever has difficulty in learning to wear grace without the danger of both dying.

DANGER

CHAPTER XV
BENTLEY pulled the trigger as Larry's fist crashed against his jaw. The bullet grazed Larry's shirt, buried itself in the door.
 Larry jerked the gun away as Bentley slumped in the seat, out cold.

Then, he was out of the car, searching the darkness, shouting—
 "Monnie! Monnie!"

"Larry!" She ran across the road to him.

"Don't shoot, Collins. Everything under control," came another voice, Colonel Harris!

Monnie's arms were around him.
 "Larry, darling! Are you all right?
 That shot?" Tears were streaming down her face.

He kissed her. "I'm not hurt.
 He missed."

Colonel Harris was beside him.
 "Good work, Collins. Got all of them, Bentley?"

"In the car. Had to sock him.
 That shot was for me," Harris left them to pull Bentley, still unconscious, from the seat. A car rounded the curve slowly, its headlights illuminating the scene. Bill and Shultz were standing beside the highway, hands in the air. Two highway patrolmen guarded them.
 A third officer came down the hill, pushing a protesting Joe in front of him.

"We'll get the one in the canyon later. He can't get far," Colonel Harris shouted.

Bentley roused as handcuffs snapped on his wrists. "What
 . . . What . . .?" he mumbled.
 Harris jerked him to his feet.

"You lost this time, Bentley.
 You fell into a trap. You're through!"

The sheriff was getting out of his car.

It was not until Bentley and his men were headed toward town in Mike's own car that Colonel Harris explained.

"This was all Miss Miles' idea, Collins. You have her to thank for saving your life." Larry squeezed her tighter to him. He had never released her.

"She figured Bentley perfectly," Harris went on. "Bentley got away with Hugh's murder. He thought he could do the same thing with you."

"Miss Miles, here, had to make him decide to get rid of you himself, and she wanted him to keep remembering Hugh—"

"That's why I had to tell him you were Hugh's brother," Monnie broke in. "That's why I pretended to hate you."

"Miss Miles called us as soon as she got away from Bentley's," the highway patrol chief continued.
 "We knew we'd never get you alive if we rushed the house. So after Miss Miles explained more about the other accident, we decided Bentley would try the same thing over again. When he called the sheriff, we were sure of it. We came up here, hid down in the canyon."

"Luckily, I sent one of the boys up on the hill to watch for Bentley. He took care of Joe. We heard everything Bentley said."

"It was getting you out safely that worried us. We knew you weren't tied, but we were afraid that Bentley would shoot you the minute he suspected anything.
 When he started talking about Miss Miles, I told her to shout, and let you take your own chances.
 She was game enough to do it. It worked out swell."

"Monnie's voice did it," Larry said. "It was unexpected and it threw Bentley off guard. That gave me time to clip him, and to push that gun away."

"And the others had their hands in the air as soon as the boys pointed a gun at them. We kept them covered all the time we were here, just in case—But we didn't want to start a battle."

"I was scared, Larry, scared to death," Monnie said. "But I had to keep Mike from killing you."

Harris walked with them to the sheriff's car. "You go back to the ranch. The sheriff and I will go on up to Bentley's. There may have been a scrap there. I sent half a dozen men up the canyon road to take Bentley's place. I think we'll have enough on Bentley and all his men to hang him after I go over his records."

"There'll be a shipment of narcotics arrive by plane next week," Larry remembered. "Bentley was to get a tip."

"We'll camp there until the plane comes in. That will clinch the case against the whole gang," Harris smiled at the prospect.
 "You two go along now."

He watched them back the sheriff's car around, then head down

SERIAL STORY — ROMANCE AHEAD

BY TOM HORNER

THEY stood on the hill, close together, looking out over the darkened Hayhook.

"I will probably buy Bentley's ranch now, and move Pete Barnes up there," Monnie said.
 "He talked about buying the Circle Cross for Pete before Bentley came."

"And if he does?" Larry asked.
 "The Hayhook will need a new foreman."

"But I've got a job, with Steve Clark."

"You belong here, Larry."
 "I'm not going to work for my father-in-law."

"You'll have to."

"I won't. You can come to New York with me."

"I won't!"

Larry laughed. "Monnie, darling, we're quarreling. Let's settle that tomorrow. Maybe we'll start a paper on the Hayhook . . ."

She smiled at him.

"Say it," he commanded, gruffly.
 "I love you," she answered, adding: "And I won't drive fast again—ever!"

Miss Wortz Wins State Golf Title

Seventeen Year Old Ft.
 Smith Girl Takes Crown

TEXARKANA—Miss Ed Dell Wortz, 17, Fort Smith High School senior, conquered a putting lapse on the late holes at the Texarkana Country Club course Thursday, to win the Arkansas women's golf championship by defeating Mrs. Carl Robbins, also of Fort Smith, 3 and 2.

They finished the first nine all square after some rugged play, and then both improved.

They halved No. 10, but Miss Wortz took the lead on No. 11 by ramming down a 15-footer for a birdie two.

Thirteen and fourteen were halved, but Miss Wortz went two up to No. 15 when Mrs. Robbins drove into the woods and missed her second.

The Fort Smith girl won the match on the sixteenth when Mrs. Robbins missed a three-foot putt.

Mrs. Robbins' ability to sink six and eight-foot putts on the first nine kept her in the match, nullifying mistakes with her woods.

Miss Wortz succeeds Mrs. Conally Henson of Little Rock as the Arkansas state champion. Mrs. Henson was unable to play because of illness.

Stewardess Is Woman's Idea

Ellen Church Gave the Idea of Using Girls

By DAVID ANDERSON
WHILE FOR NEA SERVICE
CHICAGO—Ten years ago this day, Miss Ellen Church sold the aviation industry on having girls instead of men as stewards. Her idea was to have girls who could be trained out of the emergency class and make it every day occurrence for thousands of passengers.

At the time, Miss Church, who is now a resident of Chicago, was a member of the Milwaukee, Wis., County Hospital, is still a by-word among the 500 trim, uniformed girls who fly in the nation's passenger planes as stewardesses. In their estimation, it is a combination of Columbus and Florence Nightingale. She is the discoverer of the profession, and, like the famous English nurse, she is the profession's organizer.

Too Many Seek "Glamour"
Even now, ten years later, hundreds of young women are flocking to the profession for advice. They would so love to become stewardesses, they say, because it's so glamorous, so romantic. Miss Church tries to answer as many of the letter as she can. "I try to tell them the facts," she says. "If they are looking for glamour, I tell them to forget it. If you are on being a stewardess, study nursing."

"My advice is if you want to be a stewardess just for that sake alone, you are only a part of the job of being a nurse. In other words, girls must think first of being a nurse, be genuinely interested in nursing as a career."

"Only one girl in 10,000 becomes a stewardess. That's an important thing to remember."

Sold Idea Against Opposition
Ten years ago Miss Church, then already a trained nurse in a San Francisco hospital, began to take flying lessons. Everything about flying interested her, and it still does, she says. She went to see Steve Stimpson, United Air Lines West Coast traffic manager.

She told him of her idea. If passengers who were timid about flying were to be waited on in a plane by a neat girl who smiled often, it would have a good psychological effect. A girl patting the pillows of the passenger's chairs and carrying trays of fine food 5000 feet in the air would allay needless fears, Miss Church argued.

At this time the air line had planned on hiring men stewards. The uniforms were already cut when Miss Church presented her proposal. After weeks of talk, argument and conferences, Miss Church won out. The company decided to make the experiment, "for a few weeks," and Miss Church was put in charge of eight girls.

At first the pilots and the ground crews were hostile. Many attempt to scare her out, they hazed her by telling tales of crashes, burning planes and gruesome accidents of the air. But she didn't scare easily.

"The passengers liked us at once," Miss Church recalls. "And soon the pilots and other men employees discovered our worth."

Miss Church lost count of the amount of mileage she covered as a stewardess. She estimates that she has flown more than 100,000 miles. Some day soon, she hopes to try for a pilot's license.

Besides Mr. McMath, there were the following club guests Friday: Mrs. Lyman Armstrong, wife of the incoming club president; and Bob Marshall, Rotarian of Clovis, N. M.

Candidate McNutt Declares Self Out

He Urges Roosevelt to Run for Third Term

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A call to President Roosevelt to accept renomination "in view of the danger to our security" was issued Thursday by Paul V. McNutt, who has been a conditional candidate for the presidency. McNutt, federal security administrator and former governor of Indiana, has sought the Democratic nomination. He has said he would abandon his own aspirations if Mr. Roosevelt became a candidate.

Senator Minton (Dem., Ind.), a supporter both of President Roosevelt and McNutt, told reporters the latter issued the statement "because he realizes the country is really for Roosevelt and that what we should be thinking about is not our own political fortunes but the welfare of the country."

"I think McNutt should be followed by other avowed candidates for the nomination," Minton added.

Senator Wheeler (Dem. Mont.), a candidate for the Democratic nomination, said: "I don't think Mr. McNutt or anybody else has to worry about the president accepting the nomination. Every recent action has shown very definitely that he will."

Senator Burke (Dem. Neb.) said he was opposed "to a third term for any president under any circumstances at any time."

the vessels are practically obsolete. Peru owns two obsolete cruisers, two old destroyers and four up-to-date submarines. Colombia has two modern destroyers, plus a handful of gunboats useless for a fight with a major power. Venezuela's fleet of five gunboats include one pre-Spanish war vessel and one ex-American yacht built in 1900. Uruguay's navy consists of light patrol craft; Paraguay's, of four river gunboats.

U. S. Missions At Work

Now

Steps to remedy the situation are being taken. U. S. naval missions are currently working with the governments of Brazil, Colombia, the Argentine and Peru; the U. S. army air corps has a mission in the Argentine, and Brazil is pushing an army mechanization program with the advice of a mission of five U. S. army officers.

It is likely that before long U. S. military missions will be in most if not all of the Latin-America nations, advising on organization, equipment and training.

But if the United States itself was recently revealed as unprepared for a major war, it is a shining example of readiness by comparison with its sister republics to the south.

L. & A. Is Linked With Air Service

Nearest Local Rail-Air Connection Is Shreveport

The Kansas City Southern-Louisiana & Arkansas Railway Lines have sprouted wings, figuratively speaking, according to an announcement made Friday by C. P. Couch, president. And he wasn't speaking of an angelic condition, either. Rather, he was telling of the series of interline rail-air passenger traffic agreements the railroad has been entering into with the major connecting air transport companies in its territory.

Already contracts have been negotiated with the following air lines: Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc., and Braniff Airways, connecting with the railroad at Kansas City, Mo.; Delta Air Lines, connecting at Shreveport, La.; and Chicago & Southern Air Lines and National Airlines, connecting at New Orleans, La. As a result, every passenger, station and ticket office on the railroad system becomes an air line office as well, and is able to sell through rail-air transportation to all parts of the United States, Canada and Mexico, as well as to the many foreign cities reached by the far-flung routes of the Pan American Airways System.

In commenting on the arrangement, Mr. Couch said, "It is in line with the company's policy of affording its patrons the finest and most complete transportation service possible. It has long been apparent that the communities in our territory want and need air service—and now we are able to bring them the benefits, in part at least, of this newest form of transport, growing so rapidly in popularity."

English Movie Stars Are Called Home

NEW YORK—(AP)—Vivien Leigh and Laurence Olivier, English actors now playing on Broadway in Romeo and Juliet, were summoned home by the British government Thursday to enter war service.

The screen and stage stars said they recently volunteered, in letters to the British ministry of information, to serve in any available capacities.

They announced they would close their Broadway run on June 8 and take the first homebound-bound ship. They said they were not advised what their duties would be.

For purposes of local government, England and Wales are divided primarily into 62 administrative counties.

sources estimated Friday that a total of 90,000 British, French and Belgians have been landed in England from the Flanders battleground. About two-thirds of these are British.

There are no figures here on the total British or Allied casualties.

However, both French and British sources estimate the German casualties at about 500,000.

Small Cruiser Lost
LONDON—(AP)—The admiralty Friday announced the loss of the British anti-aircraft cruiser Curlew. The 4,290-ton ship was sunk as the result of "two bombing attacks some days ago off the north coast of Norway," the announcement said.

Allies Escaping
PARIS—(AP)—The imperilled French rear guards of the Allied northern armies were reported late Thursday night to be fighting their way, step by step, toward the sea after holding off the Germans to the bitter end in Flanders to permit the mass of their comrades to escape.

Military dispatches said the French troops under Gen. Jacques Adolphe Prieux had abandoned their positions along the south wall of the Allied escape corridor and were pushing along the 40-mile road to Dunkerque, where warships and transports are taking aboard the remnants of the north. (German sources claim General Prieux and his staff have been captured.)

The Germans attacked across Flanders halfway between Lille and Dunkerque in an effort to cut off the retreat but reports late Thursday night said the rear guard was squeezing through.

Both flanks of the French path to the sea now are held by British troops, taking their stand in turn behind flooded zones north and south of the fortified portion of Dunkerque.

The swamps south of Dunkerque, from Gravelines to Saint Omer, which have been dried up by modern drainage, once more are a salty bog, covered by waters admitted by flooded canals from the sea. The valley of the Yser, north of Dunkerque, was flooded, from Nieupoort to Ypres over a width of more than two miles.

The German air force launched violent bombing attacks against the fleeing Allies and against the warships at Dunkerque, but was estimated to have lost nearly 100 planes alone.

Nazi Planes Decisive
A SOUTHEAST PORT IN ENGLAND—(AP)—Thousands of Britain's smashed army of Flanders, staggering with fatigue from the bloody 20-day failure across the channel, landed on home soil Thursday night. Many were lost on the narrow stretch of water that was turned all the way into a raging strip of fire.

With them were many French infantrymen. There were men who told in awe of the might of the German army and air force and of the cheapness with which life was held in the Nazi columns.

Their trip across the channel had been scarcely less punishing than the 20 days spent in Flanders.

One soldier thus described the embarkation:

"When we were hit (by bombs) we swam ashore, but when the ship did not go down we swam back to her again to take her out of the harbor. Then she turned turtle and we had to swim again. Some of us were in the water for hours before we were picked up by a British warship."

Telling of suffering continuous air attacks from the very beginning of the Flanders campaign, they all declared it was the fleets of German planes and the great weight of German numbers that finally pushed them off the Flemish plain.

Hospital ships as well as troop ships were bombed by the Germans, they declared.

"Our fliers are magnificent," said one, "but it's volume that we need."

Why Belgium Surrendered
BERN, Switzerland—(AP)—A witness to the battle in Flanders, who arrived here through Germany, said Thursday night the Belgian army had been cut to bits and that there was no reason to wonder why King Leopold had capitulated.

"Whole regiments simply vanished under German fire the day before the surrender," said this witness, who left the war zone the day Leopold gave up. "If that was not enough to bring a surrender, the troops' morale was shattered by the presence of masses of refugees literally on the army's skirts. German bombs striking at Belgian supply lines struck the refugees, too—Belgian refugees."

Grandma Was Right
Some of us need a laxative medicine in the Spring

Grandma went to the woods in the Springtime and procured roots and herbs to make a Spring Tonic for the whole family. Maybe you need a Spring Tonic too.

Colds of winter, dry foods, lack of exercise often leave one's system in a run-down condition. Possibly a touch of Malaria left over from last fall, or a temporary constipated condition due to lack of green foods in your winter diet, has added to your distress.

If you have no organic trouble, you no doubt, like thousands of other Southerners, will be benefited by taking Nash's C. & L. Tonic and Laxative. Nash's contains two good Laxative Ingredients—Mayapple and Phenolphthalein. It also contains Quinine and Cinchonine to combat the type of Malaria most prevalent in our Southland.

Mr. Nash, the drug manufacturer, says he does not want one penny of your money if Nash's C. & L. does not satisfy you. He says, "Try it for one week, and if you are not satisfied your druggist is authorized to refund your money. Call for Nash's C. & L. Price 50c."
